WEATHER TRIVIA CALENDAR 2017

Celebrating Canada's 150th Anniversary

Compiled by David Phillips

Canadians love the weather. It's our favorite topic of conversation. And the Canadian Weather Trivia Calendar is one of this country's most popular and best-selling compilation of facts, dates, and stories about our climate. Did you know that rain increases productivity? Or that cold kills more than heat? Or that the longer a porcupine's quills are in the fall, the snowier the winter will be?

DAVID PHILLIPS spent more than 40 years in the Weather business at Environment Canada, first as a researcher, and later as media spokesperson. He retired in 2015, but continues to add daily facts and tidbits to his collection of over 35,000 weather tales. A recipient of the Order of Canada, David lives in Barrie, Ontario

THE FIREHOUSE CHEF

Patrick Mathieu

A firefighter encounters many situations that require decisive action, but one that influenced Waterloo firehouse chef Patrick Mathieu more than most was the simple question posed to him at mealtime: "are you gonna cook, or clean up?"

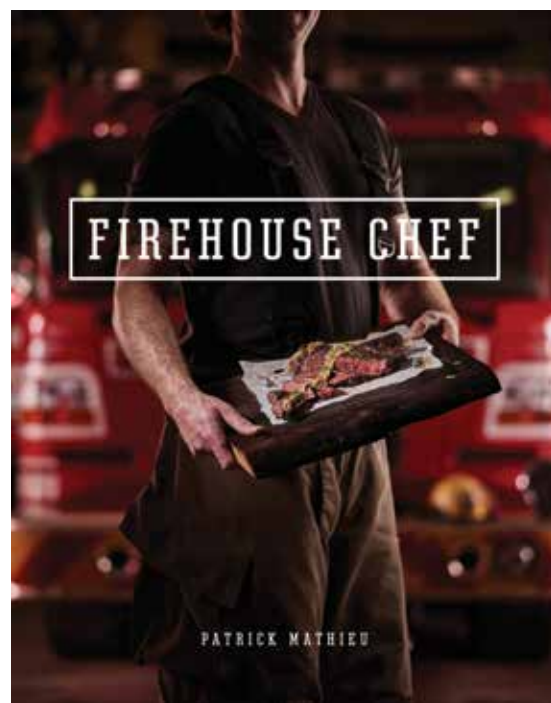

The Firehouse Chef is an account of Mathieu's culinary experience as a Canadian firefighter, preparing meals for his fellow firemen that have kept them well-nourished for over 15 years.

With original recipes, as well as contributions by chefs from firehouses stretching from Newfoundland to BC, this is a book that gets what it's like to prepare meals for households on the go. A team of firemen is just like a family, and The Firehouse Chef is sure to spark some new ideas in your own home with sizzling recipes such as:

- Old South Classic FireHouse Pulled Pork
- Cauliflower Steaks with Salsa Verde
- Yukon Elk Chili with Chocolate and Cinnamon
- Thai Drunken Noodles

Whether you're looking for a simple starter, a gourmet dessert, or a hearty main, these recipes have been tried and tasted by test audiences who are not afraid to speak their mind! Filled with colourful anecdotes and sumptuous photography, get ready as Patrick Mathieu and firehouse chefs from across the country set the culinary world ablaze with the season's hottest cookbook.

Firefighter Patrick Mathieu is a very passionate foodie and self-taught chef who followed in his French-Canadian family's traditions of firefighting and cooking from the heart. He has cultivated his love for cooking in the firehouse and, alongside his wife Andrea Lauren, is the proud owner of StationHouse Catering and Private Chef Services. Patrick is also a culinary instructor, a food and recipe columnist for Firefighting in Canada Magazine, and appeared on Season 2 of the Food Network's Chopped Canada. He lives just outside Waterloo, Ontario with his wife and two children.

STORM THE KETTLE RESETTING THE NEWFOUNDLAND TABLE

Elaine Feore and Joanne Goudie

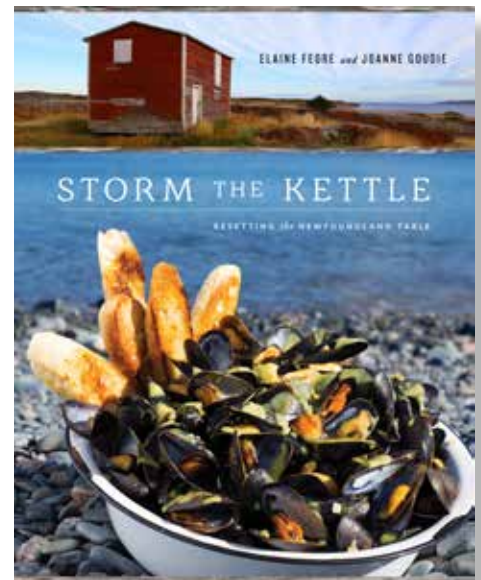

Looking out over Newfoundland's breathtaking coastal scenery invokes a sense of timelessness, and it's this feeling that makes Newfoundland and Labrador one of Canada's most extraordinary regions. In Storm the Kettle, authors Elaine Feore and Joanne Goudie celebrate Newfoundland's strong connection to the past with an eye to the culinary world beyond its shores, maintaining a centuries-old love of food and commonwealth, but, at the same time, infusing them with a contemporary sampling of recipes from around the globe.

It's often observed that Newfoundlanders take great pleasure in sharing food with the people around them, and Storm the Kettle encourages and updates this tradition, taking inspiration both from present-day Newfoundland restaurant culture as well as from the customary foods that have graced East Coast tables since Canada's earliest days. Appetizers and sides like Turnip "Fries" with Crispy Prosciutto and Balsamic Dressing invite foreign tastes to time-honored staples. And for the purist, Feore and Goudie offer a generous helping of recipes that pay tribute to Newfoundland's essential export—cod—with selections such as Salt Cod Soup, Cod Tacos, and Poached Cod with Mixed Vegetables.

We wanted to feature our province as an integral part of the book, because we feel that our heritage and culture still shines through in how we live and eat here now. It is evident in our laid-back lifestyle, our spontaneity, adventurousness and generosity. It is evident in how we open our homes and share our tables and our joy in every celebration. It is, to a large degree, this Newfoundland "spirit" that we want to share with readers. We want to remind readers that the value of relationships has not changed, and that sharing of food nurtures those relationships.

ELAINE FEORE was born in St. John's, Newfoundland. She is a self taught cook who ran a catering business in Windsor, Ontario before fulfilling her dream of opening her own restaurant, Elaine's Fine Foods. After selling that restaurant, she returned home to live in Newfoundland where she met Joanne Goudie. Together the two of them built The Blue Fish Bistro, a restaurant in Grand Falls-Windsor serving cuisine inspired by menus from around the world.

JOANNE GOUDIE was born in the central Newfoundland town of Botwood but has lived in many parts of the island including Corner Brook, Stephenville, St. John's, Fogo Island and Grand Falls-Windsor. She has always loved baking and catering, and after meeting Elaine Feore the two were able to turn their shared passion for food into the grand adventure. Joanne and her husband Craig are the proud parents of two sons.

9000 YEARS OF WINE

by Rod Phillips

Wine has a history far larger than that of any mere beverage. Present at the earliest recorded points of human history, it has been present at the height of sophistication and the depths of debauchery, an integral part of religious ritual and a free-flowing social lubricant.

This new edition explores the tourism and terroir-driven global industry of today while reaching as far back as Ancient Greece and Rome. On the way it stops at significant points of wine history including the birth of Champagne, Venice in the 17th century, trade in the Middle Ages, and more. Celebratory and thorough, 9000 Years of Wine never lets the scale of history—wars, fraud, blight, colonization, Prohibition—get in the way of a good story or notable bottle.

ROD PHILLIPS is professor of history at Carleton University, Ottawa, and the author of a number of books on alcohol and wine. His books have been translated into many languages. He writes a weekly wine column for the Ottawa Citizen, writes on wines and spirits for NUVO Magazine, and has contributed to wine media such as The World of Fine Wine (U.K.), Wine Spectator (U.S.), and Vines (Canada).

DANCING ON AIR

A tale of Vengeance, Mercy, and the End of the Death Penalty in Newfoundland
by Eric Colbourne

"On St. Patrick's Day, 1942, Herb Spratt, the youngest son of a prominent St. John's city councillor, murdered his girlfriend, Josephine O'Brien. A weak defense at a two-day trial in the Supreme Court of Newfoundland resulted in a guilty verdict, coupled with a strong recommendation for mercy. The Chief Justice pronounced a sentence of death on April 28th, 1942. Six years later, during a night of terror in the town of Norris Arm, Alfred Beaton stabbed his girlfriend, and shot to death another young woman. Beaton then rampaged through the town, but failed to find any other victims. Beaton was sent to trial on January 31, 1949, wherein the jury returned a guilty verdict without a recommendation for mercy. The judge imposed the death penalty. Eric Colbourne investigates the background of these two cases, cases which would ultimately result in the abolition of the death penalty in Newfoundland.

WHISKY JAPAN

Dominic Roskrow

Japanese whisky is finally getting the international recognition it deserves. Originally created to emulate the malts of Scotland, Japanese whiskies now hold a distinct and unique place among other world-class spirits. Yet, despite having a history going back nearly a century, and winning many prestigious awards in recent years (including Whisky Magazine's World Whiskies Awards), Japanese whiskies have remained enigmatic and intimidating.

Until now. In WHISKY JAPAN, the most comprehensive book on Japanese whisky ever available in English, renowned expert Dominic Roskrow reveals what makes Japanese whisky so special and sought-after by whisky connoisseurs everywhere. He introduces the companies that make Japanese whisky, and offers detailed portraits of these distilleries, explaining their complex production processes, traditions, and the new innovations that have allowed them to take on and surpass the competition. The reader is carried along on a journey to the very heart of Japanese whisky making, with extensive tasting notes for all the leading expressions, profile interviews with key personalities, and over 500 beautiful photographs and illustrations. Here are the whisky makers, blenders, independent bottlers, retailers, collectors, bloggers, and bartenders. There is a lively guide to the best bars in Japan and around the world in which to taste Japanese whisky, a section on whisky cocktails and food pairings, and useful travel tips on how to get to the distilleries, where to stay, what to eat, and what else there is to do in the area.

DOMINIC ROSKROW is an award-winning drinks writer and the former editor of Whisky Magazine, The Spirits Business and Whiskeria. He has written eight books on whisky including The World's Best Whiskies, 1001 Whiskies You Must Taste Before You Die and The Whisky Opus (for which he was nominated for the 2013 Fortnum & Mason Drinks Writer of the Year award).

5 SEASONS KITCHEN

Pierre Gagnaire

In 2015 Pierre Gagnaire, whose 11 restaurants worldwide boast two and three Michelin stars, was voted 'Best Chef in the World' by his peers and 2016 sees him mark 50 dazzlingly creative and successful years in the kitchen.

To celebrate this outstanding career Grub Street is delighted to be publishing his new title La Cuisine des 5 Saisons in English. This beautiful book is about his recipes and his work as a chef and for the first time makes his dishes accessible for home cooks.

Why is it called Five Seasons? Because for chef Gagnaire there are five not four seasons; Spring, he says must be divided into two seasons because you don't have the same produce in March as in June. Thus the recipes in this book follow the rhythm of the seasons and their bounty. In each chapter there are six menus with starter, main dish and dessert. The recipes come from Pierre's culinary's repertory and these are the recipes which made him famous. Through the recipes one can see the strong worldwide influence in his cuisine, cooking with every kind of ingredient.

His eponymous restaurant in Paris specialises in modern French cuisine, and has garnered three Michelin stars. He has become an iconoclastic chef at the forefront of the fusion cuisine movement by introducing jarring juxtapositions of flavours, tastes, textures, and ingredients. On his website he gives his mission statement as 'facing tomorrow but respectful of yesterday'. Gagnaire is also Head Chef of Sketch in London. In 2005 both restaurants were ranked in the S.Pellegrino World's 50 Best Restaurants, with Pierre Gagnaire ranking third for three consecutive years (2006, 2007, and 2008). In December 2009, Gagnaire made his United States debut with Twist in Las Vegas, which has since received great critical praise. He now also has restaurants in Hong Kong, Seoul, Dubai, Tokyo, Berlin, and Moscow.

QUIVERING DESSERTS

Marie Holm

Have you ever tasted a real homemade custard pudding? And no, we don't mean the one that comes from a packet, but a beautiful, trembling cream dessert made the old fashioned way with eggs, sugar, milk and cream.

In Quivering Desserts & Other Puddings you will find recipes for both classic puddings such as vanilla, almond, chocolate and wonderful contemporary versions such as salted caramel pudding with caramel popcorn and white chocolate pudding with jasmine tea. And much, much more.

Sounds difficult? It is not. A real pudding just requires a little time at the stove and some hours in the refrigerator.

And the reward — a quivering cream artwork that makes children quiver and adults sigh.

EL CELLER DE CAN ROCA

Joan, Josep and Jordi Roca

El Celler de Can Roca is the three-Michelin starred Catalan restaurant in Spain which was opened in 1986 by the Roca brothers, Joan, Josep and Jordi. In 2015, it was once again named the best restaurant in the world by the Restaurant magazine.

The first edition of El Celler de Can Roca The Book was published in Spanish in a giant format weighing an incredible 5 kilos and retailing at 90 euros. This new smaller, redux edition is appearing in English for the first time. An amazing book, this is the definitive work about El Celler de Can Roca. Fully illustrated in colour throughout it gathers the thoughts of writer Josep Maria Fonalleras in 'A day at El Celler'.

VEGAN CHOCOHOLIC

Philip Hochuli

This book offers uncomplicated recipes for delicious desserts, pies, and cookies and shows how chocolate can be used in a multitude of dishes.

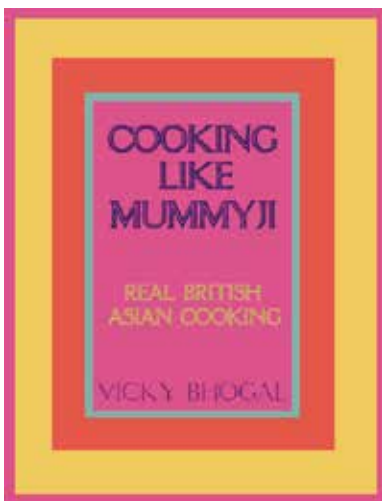

After the introduction which lists which ingredients you need to make chocolate, it explains how chocolate is produced and processed correctly. Then follow the recipes where you will find cookies, cupcakes, and brownies, and a separate chapter on cakes, pies and cheesecakes including chocolate spreads and vegan Nutella (heavenly).

For each recipe there are icons that tell at a glance whether the recipe is gluten-free, sugar-free or soy-free. This is very useful for quick reference, especially when you have guests who have allergies and intolerances. They also have information on the level of difficulty and time required to facilitate painless planning.

Philip Hochuli is considered the rising star of the vegan cooking scene in Switzerland. He gives cooking classes, makes cookery shows, advises restaurants and has a strong presence in print media, radio and TV.

LEAST YOU CAN DO IS BE MAGNIFICENT IS SELECTED AND NEW WRITINGS 1983 - 2016

Introduction by Alessandro
Porco

The Least You Can Do Is Be Magnificent: Selected and New Writings, 1983-2016 is a retrospective celebration of the work of Steve Venright, Canada's foremost surrealist. For over thirty years, in the tradition of Lautréamont, Breton, and Michaux, Steve Venright has devoted himself to the liberation of the imagination. His writing is preoccupied with the journey into and across 'domains of existence vivid and compelling beyond even this miraculous reality we call the world.' Venright's dream visions of southwestern Ontario's deliriomantic landscapes are populated by his signature puns, portmanteaus, neologisms, and spoonerisms. Bibliographic notes included.

Steve Venright lives in Toronto.

AQUA SACRA

Keith Henderson

Everything seems broken in Suzanna Ricci's life. Only 42, her marriage to Len has disintegrated. Her relationship to their teenage boys, Robin and Logan, is in need of repair. Now her mother, 'that martial soul,' wants her to restore the family home in Acqua Sacra, damaged by earthquake. And she doesn't care how many trips from Montreal to their vivid Italian patria of Abruzzo her daughter has to make.

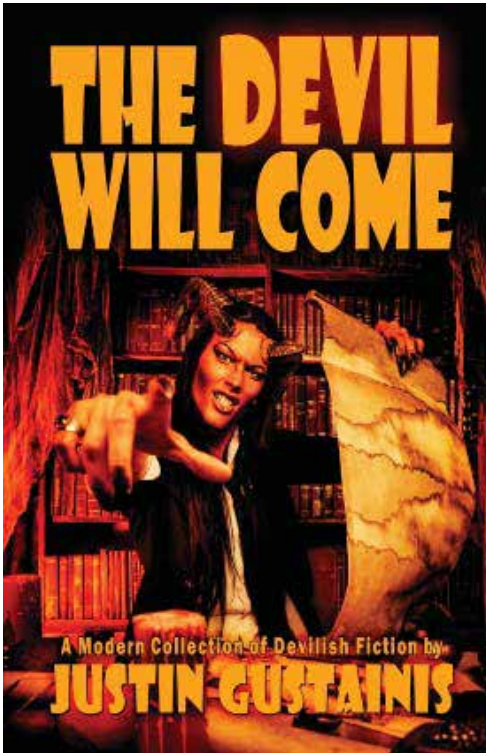

At least when Len, a dodgy accountant, encourages her to take a job with a Montreal law firm headed by a man named Robert Bliss, Suzanna feels hopeful of being freer of her ex. Until she realizes the crazy cost of disentangling herself, and not just from him or his 'associates.'

Henderson, the author of The Roof Walkers, again delivers an entertaining and perceptive story in Acqua Sacra about the nature of personal responsibility, this time in an age of multinational delinquency. If Suzanna survives the wreckage, it'll be by honouring the true meaning of 'family' in any global village.

Add Keith Henderson lives in Montreal.

ONE WORLD TWO: A SECOND GLOBAL ANTHOLOGY OF SHORT STORIES

Edited by Chris Brazier and Ovo Adagha

One World Two is even more ambitious than Volume One in its continent. Most of the stories are unique to this volume, with some appearing for the first time in English (such as Egypt's Mansoura Ez-Eldin and Brazil's Vanessa Barbara). The themes and writing styles are as richly diverse as the writers' origins.

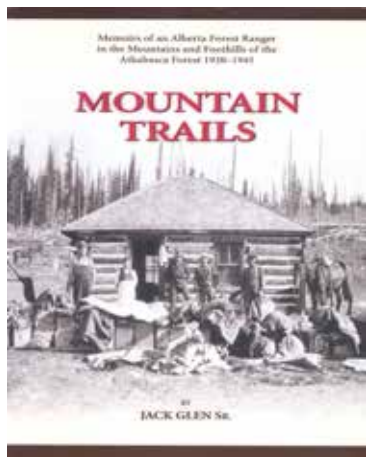

The collection is centered around a loose theme of building bridges. It is interested in the human condition as a dynamic central line linking individuals, cultures and experiences: east and west, north and south, and, perhaps most importantly, past, present, and future.

LEARNING FROM THE FOREST

By Robert Bott, Peter Murphy, Robert Udell

The landscape around Hinton, Alberta, includes some of the finest forests to be found on the east slopes of the Canadian Rockies, as well as abundant wildlife, scenic vistas, turbulent streams, a mighty river and, beneath the surface, a wealth of coal, crude oil, and natural gas. Many thousands of people have passed through or settled the region, shaping the landscape with hard work, hopes and dreams. Managing the use of this landscape has been a special responsibility, shared since 1954, between the Province of Alberta and Weldwood of Canada Ltd. This book documents the story of that forest management agreement. It provides a true case study of the adaptive forest management procedures which embrace multiple goals, allowing for a true vision of what a successful forest is, and what it must become.

HOW TO AUDITION ON CAMERA

Sharon Bialy

To win a role in a movie or on network or cable TV, you must make a strong first impression in your brief, crucial audition—and the first person you have to impress is the casting director. In How to Audition On Camera, Casting Director Sharon Bialy answers the twenty-five questions actors ask most frequently about how to nail an audition. What is the casting director looking for? If you mess up, can you start over?

What is the most common mistake experienced actors make? Should you audition off book or can you look at the page? Should you dress in character? How much can you improvise? Actors—both novice and professional—are often misled by myths and outdated prescriptions. This guide replaces such misinformation with concise and accurate advice from someone who is in the room helping to make the decision on who gets the job. Bialy gets readers started immediately on the road to screen acting success.

Sharon Bialy is an award-winning casting director for television, film, and theater. Her television credits include The Walking Dead, Better Call Saul, Halt and Catch Fire, Breaking Bad, Gotham, Phil Spector, The Unit, Jericho, Mind of the Married Man, and Picket Fences. Her film credits include Secret in Their Eyes (with Julia Roberts, Chiwetel Ejiofor and Nicole Kidman), Drugstore Cowboy, Point Break, Rudy, Mr. Holland's Opus, Reign O'er Me, and Red Belt for David Mamet. Bialy's love for theater has been a recurring theme throughout her career. She recently cast China Doll with Al Pacino, and she worked with Des McAnuff at the La Jolla Playhouse for 15 years and various productions at Lincoln Center, The Old Globe, South Coast Rep, and The Guthrie. Her Broadway credits include The Anarchist, Jersey Boys, Race, and The Farnsworth Invention. She has received 15 Artios Award nominations and an Emmy nomination (for Breaking Bad's final season) and is a board member of the Casting Society of America.

SEA STRUCK

W.H. Bunting

"This marvellous book should be hailed as an instant classic." -- David McCullough

For young men more than a century ago, "going to sea" was as much a rite of passage as making a grand tour of Europe. Sea Struck brings alive the final decades of square-rigged sail through the accounts of voyages made on three ships by three young men from Massachusetts. There is plenty of adventure here— storms, men overboard, discipline that bordered on brutality, and exotic ports. There is also a fascinating immersion in the lore of the sea and sail and the global web of connections in the New England maritime community.

W. H. "BILL" BUNTING shipped as galley boy aboard the brigantine Yankee at age 13 and later completed a 25,000-mile world voyage as first mate of a 132-foot barkentine.

MAINE OF GLASS

W. H. Bunting, Kevin Johnson, and Earle G. Shettleworth, Jr.

Nineteenth-century Maine—famed for its lumbering, shipbuilding, and seafaring—has attracted copious attention from historians, but early twentieth-century Maine has not. Maine on Glass redresses this imbalance with 190 postcard photos and three of Maine's foremost historians. Postcards were the Instagrams of the early twentieth century. The images in this book were selected from 22,000 glass plate negatives created by the Eastern company between 1909 and World War II.

W. H. "Bill" Bunting is the author of Boston: Portrait of a Port 1852-1914; A Day's Work in two volumes; An Eye for the Coast; The Camera's Coast; Live Yankees; and Sea Struck and has been called "the best of Maine writers and scholars." Kevin Johnson is the photo archivist for the Penobscot Marine Museum. Earle G. Shettleworth, Jr. was appointed to the first board of the Maine Historic Preservation Commission in 1971 and has served as director of the commission since 1976 and as Maine State Historian since 2004.

LIFE IN YOUR GARDEN

Reeser Manley and Marjorie Peronto

Gardeners can play a significant role in helping to sustain native plant diversity and providing refuge for threatened species of insects and sanctuary for birds, amphibians, reptiles, and small mammals. Horticulture experts Reeser Manley and Marjorie Peronto share their own experiences in gardening for biodiversity, placing a strong emphasis on insect diversity as a bellwether of success. Insects comprise 60 percent of Earth's biodiversity, and they deserve to be recognized as the creatures that run our gardens. It is not the gardener's job to eliminate insects that munch on leaves, suck the sap from stems, bore holes in fruits, or graze on roots. This is the work of predatory insects and arachnids such as ladybug beetles, hoverfly larvae, praying mantises, certain wasps, and spiders. It is the gardener's task to cultivate populations of these predators.

The Life in Your Garden also describes the functional plants of a garden (with recommendations for understory trees and shrubs throughout North America) and their relationship with garden life, introducing the concept of a "garden insectary."

That a gardener can be an important steward for our planet is a powerful concept, and here at last is the book that shows us how.

REESER MANLEY holds a Ph.D. in Horticultural Science and has gardened for many years in Massachusetts and Maine, and before that in South Carolina and Washington state. Marjorie Peronto is a University of Maine professor with 20 years' experience teaching courses in ornamental gardening, ecological landscaping, and home food production. She trains Master Gardener Volunteers to conduct community outreach projects that promote sustainable gardening and food security.

TREADMILL

By Brandon Pitts
Introduction by Tara Fickel

This newly revised edition of WWII Japanese internment novel Treadmill celebrates a truly unique work of historical fiction. Hiroshi Nakamura's novel is the only one of its kind which was written about life in the World War II camps for Japanese and Japanese-Americans written as these events played out.

Nakamura captures exquisitely the thinking and mood of the people. It accurately evokes the fears, anxieties, suspicions, cynicisms and passions brought out by camp life.

Illustrated with 14 historical photographs taken by Ansel Adams

Hiroshi Nakamura, along with his family, spent the war years in Salinas Assembly Center, Salinas, California; Camp II of the Poston Relocation Center, Parker, Arizona; and Tule Lake Segregation Center, Newell, California. It was during this period that he put down on paper what he was observing, experiencing, and hearing and expressed them in this novel.

POLYNYA

Mélanie Vincelette
Translated from the French by Sheila Fishman and Donald Winkler

In the Arctic Circle village of Iqaluit, known as the 'Las Vegas of the North,' Rosaire Nicolet is found dead in a seedy hotel room rented by a stripper. Rosaire's younger brother Ambroise arrives in town to identify the body. Ambroise worshiped his brother and wants answers. While investigators suspect a crime of passion, Ambroise has a very different theory. Polynya delves into the mysterious and poetic polar world of Baffin Island, where a cast of characters live on the margins and everyone is not necessarily to be believed.

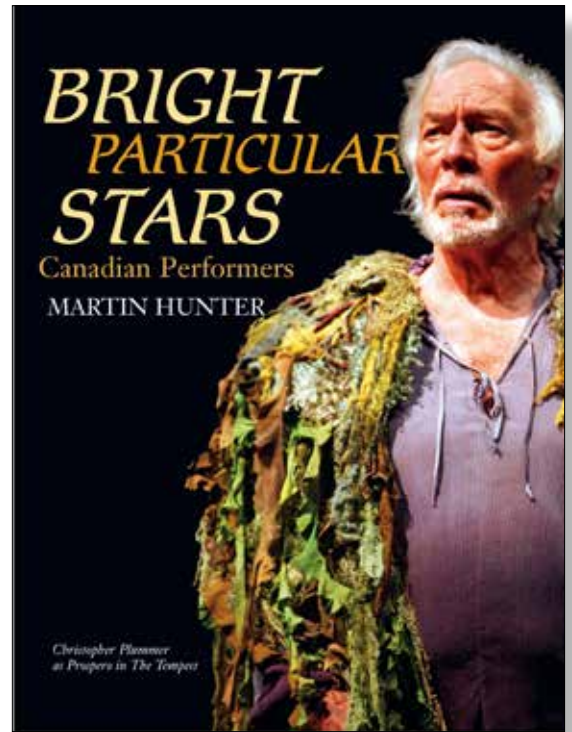

MÉLANIE VINCELETTE is already a respected figure of the Quebec literary world. Polynya was short listed for the Governor General's Award for French-language fiction in 2011 and was voted the best book of 2011 by La Presse. Her first novel, Crimes horticoles (Horticultural Crimes) was published in 2006 and won the Anne Hébert Prize. In 2006, she won the Radio Canada Book Award. Vincelette lives in Montreal.

TRANSITIONS

Yael Gayanl Dayan

In Transitions, Yael Dayan, novelist daughter of the legendary Moshe Dayan and a public figure with a long and illustrious political career, looks back at her life, scrutinizing it without illusions. Once a desirable, free-spirited young woman and a successful author, she lived with the sense that she held the world in the palm of her hand. And the world adulated both her and the young state she came from.

Originally published in Israel in 2012.

Yael DAYAN served as a member of the Israeli Knesset between 1992 and 2003, and from 2008 to 2013 was the chair of Tel Aviv city council. She was an officer in the Israel Defense Force and made a name for herself as an author and newspaper columnist, writing columns for Yedioth Ahronoth, Ma'ariv, Al HaMishmar and Davar.

FROM INNOCENCE TO IMPUDENCE

Awadh Jaggernath Jaggernath

From Innocence to Impudence is the story of a family, the record of three generations, and the story of a young man growing up in Trinidad.

The story begins with four grandparents of Indian origin, who desperately wanted to free themselves from the curse of the caste system. They voluntarily indentured themselves to the sugarcane plantations in Trinidad with the hope that after five years of their contract they would be free.

AWADH JAGGERNATH was born in Trinidad where he was educated under the British education system. He taught in elementary and secondary schools, as well as for the extra-mural department of the University of the West Indies in Trinidad. In the 1960s, he emigrated to Canada to further his education at McMaster University, University of Toronto, Brock University and York University. For decades he taught mathematics and science at the collegiate level for the Toronto District School Board and the Halton Public and Separate School Boards. He is now retired and lives in Oakville.

THE AGE OF DIVERSITY HOW GLOBAL WEALTH IS TRANSFORMING CULTURAL SPACE

By Jean-Louis Roy

Translated from the French by Leonard Rosmarin

In twenty-five years, 80% of the world population will live in Asia and Africa. What changes, culturally in particular, should be expected in this century? This is the vast and fascinating question Jean-Louis Roy's Age of Diversity tries to answer with the help of correspondents from Africa, Asia, the Americas and Europe. Roy argues that shifting wealth from the West to Asia, Latin America and Africa causes the reconfiguration of the economic map.

Originally published in France in 2012.

JEAN-LOUIS ROY is president of various cultural organizations, including the International Partnership and the Centre de la francophonie in the Americas, Jean-Louis Roy was director of Le Devoir from 1981 to 1986 before being appointed Québec's Delegate General in Paris. He is the author of many literary works of creation, history and international political analysis including Ontario in Transition and the Future of French.

THE WIDOW'S LAND

John B. Lee

This is a book about superstition, life in rural Canada, and it will appeal to those who hunger for memoir, the way things were, and the curiosities of life that somehow can't be believed. Almost two hundred years ago author John B. Lee's great-great grandfather departed from Ireland for the new world with the prospect of establishing a homestead in what is now southwestern Ontario. As was the tradition the sendoff began with an American Wake, for those leaving and those left behind knew they would never see one another again. In a chapter of that title, Lee writes "They stood on those morbid piers watching the white ache of mast and cloth as they vanished west, a crow's nest lowered on the wet blue curve of that deep-water distance in an arcing line like the falling down of kites behind hills." Sometimes sad, sometimes lighthearted, but always poignant this memoir begins in the wilderness with wolves and bears and stone horses, moves quickly through the centuries to the apotheosis of the thriving tradition of the family farm and from there into the period of decline and decay where the elision of time has stolen the name from the side of the barn as letter by letter it fades and falls to ruin. An exploration of the relationship between the rational and the material world on the one hand, and the world of dream and imagination on the other, Lee's book closes with these words: I am making the world I am made from.

He has received letters of praise from Nelson Mandela, Desmond Tutu, Australian Poet, Les Murray, and Senator Romeo Dallaire. Called "the greatest living poet in English," by poet George Whipple, he lives in Port Dover, Ontario where he works as a full time author.

BIG MEDICINE COMES TO ERIE

D.A. Lockhart

Big Medicine Comes to Erie is a poetic exploration of modern day Southwestern Ontario from the viewpoint of a Lenne Lenape speaker. Utilizing the Huron name for the region, Lockhart takes the reader on a journey through time. Touching on major events throughout history, the lyric poetry paints a picture of the Delaware peoples' migration to the region.

D.A. Lockhart lives in Windsor, ON. He holds a MFA in Creative Writing from Indiana University where he held a Neal-Marshall Fellowship in Fiction. He is a member of the Moravian of the Thames First Nation.

LOOK AT HER

Vanessa Shields

In her follow up to I Am That Woman, Shields' new collection of poetry is rooted in questions, answers and reflections about womanhood that pulsate through her lived experience as mother, poet, wife, daughter and friend. Whether Shields is reaching into her past – the history, the women, the houses; or holding the present in her hands and building her courage – choosing to love her body and celebrate her femininity; or daring to bring light to hidden realities few poets write about – her poetry is as always as strong as her love. Shields' raw honesty, sensual wit, open heart and wise soul speak the unspoken for every woman who is striving to root herself in the safety of her own self-knowledge and growing inner-strength.

Shields' passion for writing was discovered at a very young age. I am Woman, her first book of poetry was published in 2014.

ZIGZAGS

Roger Nash

Zigzags, a collection of Nash's latest poetry, explores how virtually none of our thoughts, actions or feelings go very far without becoming paradoxes and contradictions. Some paradoxes are humorous, but some are deadly. The poems debunk an intellectualism that pretends we can strategize straight lines of progress to our goals. Rather, "Life's walking a straight zigzag, while standing upright in a somersault" (Irish saying). Zigzags replaces this intellectualism with a vision of life and ourselves expressed in the harmonizing metaphors of poetry.

Roger Nash is a past-President of the League of Canadian Poets, and inaugural Poet Laureate of Sudbury. He's published seventeen books of poetry, short fiction and philosophy. Literary awards include: the Canadian Jewish Book Award for Poetry, the PEN/O. Henry Prize Story Award, the Confederation Poets Award (twice).

TWO MAPS OF EMERY

Laurence Hutchman

Two Maps of Emery is Laurence Hutchman's second book dedicated to the place in North York called Emery. Most in the GTA would not know of this place. But Hutchman brings it back to life in this book of memoir-styled poetry.

Divided into two sections: 'The First Map of Emery' begins with the story of John Graves Simcoe and finishes with the post-war period. 'The Second Map of Emery' details the arrival of families from elsewhere in Canada and Europe. Hutchman adds a personal touch by recounting his own family's journey to this new land as well as his own experiences growing up there.

THE VOODOO JOURNAL (HAITI)

Don Lajoie

Some stories insist on being told. In his first published book, award-winning Port Media journalist Don Lajoie gives readers a gripping and unapologetically honest recounting of his experiences as an award-winning journalist in Haiti. Lajoie has hundreds of stories accumulated over his many years of work, and delights in leading the reader confidently through the dichotomy of the country, its garbage-lined streets, the devastating earthquake of 2010, the rich and diverse traditions of Voodoo, Haiti's groundbreaking architecture, its thriving music scene, and its multifaceted history. From the dramatic to the mundane, Lajoie (former Windsor Star reporter) tackles aspects of Haitian life rarely seen. His eye is prescient, combining awe and humour with a very real respect for the Haitian people and the land they cherish. At the heart of the book is a reflection of faith, death, and the degradation plus redemption of humanity.

This is a book about social justice, human rights, poverty, and human dignity. A book about our southern neighbours.

Illustrated with photographs.

Don Lajoie is a writer who has worked in Journalism across Canada for four decades, most recently at the Windsor Star. His coverage of Haiti has garnered numerous national and Ontario Journalism awards, including a National Newspaper Award citation and a Beyond Borders award for investigative reporting. He lives in Windsor with his wife Grace, a son and a daughter.

THE INCREDIBLE ADVENTURES OF MARY JANE MOSQUITO

Tomson Highway/Sue Todd

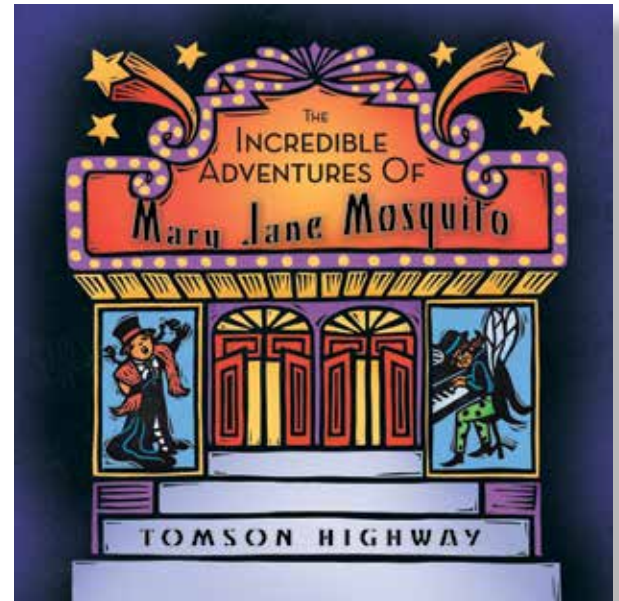

Timely, Fun, Challenging and Wise!

Tomson Highway's musical cabaret, The Incredible Adventures of Mary Jane Mosquito, couldn't be more vividly presented unless you were sitting in the middle seat of the front row watching the Cree playwright, performer, musician and poet himself. The story of a wingless little mosquito from Manitoba has all the whimsy and wise humour any audience could ask for.

The ageless theme of a misfit, who finds her voice through song and who learns to make friends by communicating directly with her audience, is a timely treat for anyone who has felt like an outsider, dealt with bullying, moved to a new place, or was different from the rest of the pack.

The entire script is here, complete with song lyrics, stage directions, Cree vocabulary, and challenging tongue twisters to delight all ages. A perfect book for drama students, teachers, and theatre enthusiasts, this beautiful full-colour volume serves as an interactive read-aloud for the young, or a great way to introduce students to the joys of staging a musical production.

TOMSON HIGHWAY has been hailed as one of the nation's most important artists. Illustrations by Sue Todd complement his work brilliantly, making this a unique Canadian gift.

LOSS MISUNDERSTOOD

By Jaclyn Pieris

A Love Misunderstood is the story of the author’s challenging path to parenthood. The purpose of this book is to support the women and their partners who can be left feeling devastatingly alone with their pain following the loss of a pregnancy. Putting pen to page and releasing the thoughts and feelings that are often hidden away deep within can be extremely therapeutic, especially for those working through the stages of grief. This honest and moving book will ultimately be a piece cowritten by both the author and the reader. It can serve as a physical representation of the heartache experienced by a couple who are struggling to start a family and can subsequently be shared with parents and friends so that they may gain a better understanding and empathy for what their loved ones are facing.

JACLYN PIERIS is a qualified therapeutic counsellor and works in higher education in the field of Student Affairs. Born in the US, she currently lives in London, England with her husband and son.

TO CATCH A NAZI

By Kenneth Markel

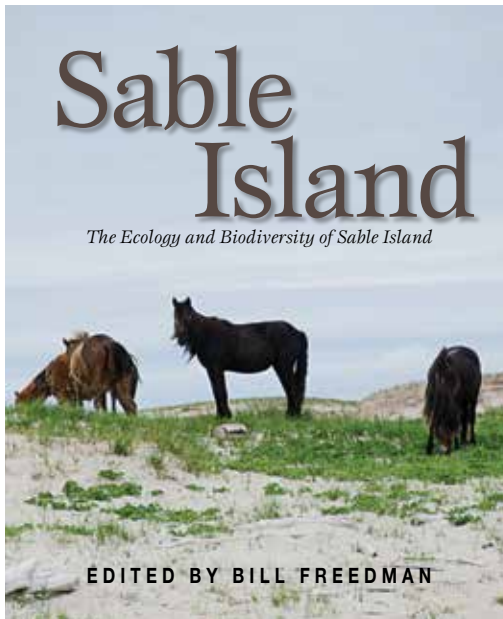

Ernst Mannheim, an ex-Nazi thought to be dead, feels ashamed he didn’t do more to save Freda, his Jewish wife, from his own people. Haunted by his failure, he tries to find his ‘orphaned’ son Willy—“the last Mannheim.” After years of searching, he finds his son (now David Menard) working as a bookbinder in New York City. Longing for contact, he begins a correspondence not as a father but as an uncle. It makes the telling of his side of the story bearable.

KEN MARKEL is a graduate of New York University and former editor at Magazine Management, a pulp fiction company publishing adventure magazines. His short stories have appeared in TRUE, ADVENTURE LIFE, SPORTSMAN and MYSTERY TALES among others. Markel’s fiction and poetry can be read in The American Bard, The Berkshire Review and the South Shore News.

A CELEBRATION OF GEORGIAN BAY CANADA'S SIXTH GREAT LAKE

Edited by Nick Eyeles

Georgian Bay was formerly called Lake Algonquin and 'la mer douce' meaning the 'sweet or freshwater sea' as Champlain called it, before being renamed after King George IV in 1822. Champlain canoed through its maze of more than 30,000 islands in 1615 marveling at this glacially-scoured archipelago that is like no other in Canada.

Georgian Bay contains the largest freshwater island in the world (Manitoulin), its rocks are as old as 2.5 billion years and the varied topography of its coast and hinterlands have inspired generations of artists, geologists and naturalists and those escaping from the urban cityscapes to seek solace among the white pines that grow out of the rock. Its waterscapes are as legendary as the summer storms that spring out of nowhere investing its treacherous coast with wrecks, stories and tragedies. It is home to a diverse range of plants, fish and other animals including rare reptiles and birds, and sensitive wetlands.

This book is a project of the Georgian Bay Land Trust (GBLT) which celebrates its 50th Anniversary in 2016. The text and pictures have been contributed by a wide ranging group of scientists, historians, artists, writers, photographers, and people who are passionate about preservation of the unique features of the Georgian Bay ecosystem.

THE LOST LAND

By Suzie Pelletier

One morning in April, she awakens in an unknown place, alone with her orange tent and her hiking backpack as sole luggage. Who has pulled the prank on her? Where is she? How will she survive with only five days of provisions?

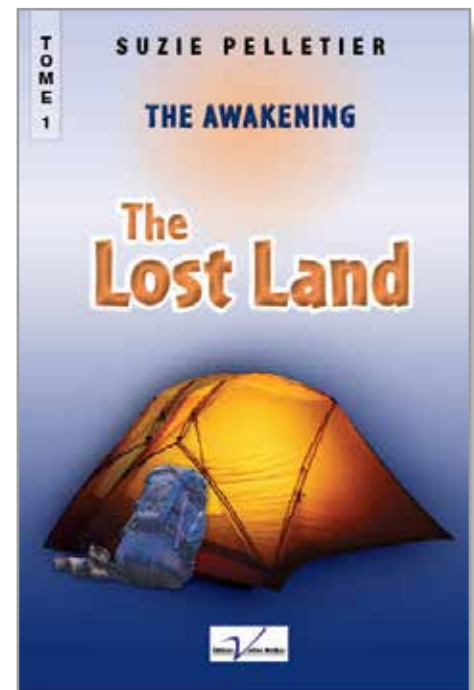

Nadine loves the hectic lifestyle she's living in Montreal. She has finally retired, which allows her time to create and explore the world. With her husband Alex, trekking has become a mutual passion that provides her with a change of scenery as well as a sense of wonder that fascinates her. Her artistic side enjoys it as well because she loves to paint, read, write and learn ...

While discovering the Lost Land, the hiker, whom the reader accompanies as a witness of her quest, shares her thoughts with us but also teaches us to reconcile with our humanity.

Nadine tries to understand at first, but in survival mode, she must focus on her safety, eating and trying to find other people with whom she can share.

Will this Lost Land allow her to find herself? When will her loved ones come to her rescue?

SUZIE PELLETIER : Born in Sherbrooke, the author studied in Quebec City where she obtained her Bachelor's degree in Science. The young biologist doesn't stop there and soon turned to administration. She earned an MBA from Concordia University and will have a long career in human resources management. She chose to live in Montreal but kept on exploring the world and its wonders.

STAY SILENT FLIGHT FROM COLUMBIA

By Natalie Hyde

Paola Gómez's childhood in an abusive home led her to dedicate her life to providing shelter for women and children in crisis. But when standing up against those responsible for the murder of a street child led to death threats against her and her family, she knew she was in trouble. After a brutal attack in the dark of night, she had only one choice: flee or die. Within hours she had left behind everyone and everything she had ever known in Colombia to start a new life in North America, where she continues her advocacy work for children, women, and at-risk communities.

NATALIE HYDE is the author of bestselling novels Saving Armpit, I Owe You One, and Hockey Girl. Her numerous non-fiction books include Cryptic Canada, Glow-in-the-Dark Creatures, and Stay Strong. She lives with her family in southwestern Ontario.

THE SALARIAN DESERT GAME

J. A. McLachlan,

What if someone you love gambled on her life...

Games are serious business on Salaria, and the stakes are high. When Kia's older sister, in a desperate bid to erase their family debt, loses the game and forfeits her freedom, Kia is determined to rescue her.

When Kia arrives on Salaria, she learns it's a world where a few key players control the board, and the pawns are ready to revolt. Kia joins the conflict in order to save her sister. As if she doesn't already have enough to handle, Agatha, the maddeningly calm Select who lives life both by-the-book and off-the-cuff -- and always at the wrong time, according to Kia -- shows up to help, along with handsome Norio, a strong-willed desert girl with her own agenda, and a group of Salarian teens earning their rite of passage in the treacherous desert game.

What can an interpreter and former thief possibly do in the midst of all this to keep the people she loves alive?

QUISTA (BOOK ONE: DANAY)

Aviva Bel'Harold

"Danay, my par'mida, you are important. One day you will see this too."

Danay is an outsider on the water planet of Uma'Three. She's too tall, too thin, she doesn't have second lungs, and the water dries out her skin to the point she has to wear a reversed wet'skn just to survive.

When her Nan'Dah gives her a coming of age bracelet on her fifteenth birthday, she knows she won't get a courtship pearl from anyone. She's happy enough when the one boy she likes mysteriously returns after being gone for a whole Turn, but she isn't surprised to discover he's more interested in her best friend. That is... until he sees her bracelet. The braid has Danay's pet name woven into it. Par'mida: 'Precious One' her Nan'Dah says. Phillip seems to think it means something different and now he won't leave Danay's side.

Something doesn't seem right. Phillip is nervous around officials and he can't answer any of her questions. And then the Emperor's fleet arrives to perform loyalty tests. Caught in the middle and branded a traitor, Danay is swept into a secretive rebellion. When her best friend is taken by the Emperor's men, Danay will have to learn that only she has the power to save the ones she loves.

When she's writing, you'll find her curled up on a sofa with a pen and a pad of paper, surrounded by her adorable puppies. Born in Winnipeg and raised in Vancouver, Aviva Bel'Harold currently resides in Calgary with her husband, four children, and a pack of dachshunds.

MELENA'S JUBILEE

Zetta Elliott

Illustrated by Aaron Boyd

After being sent to bed early the previous night, Melena wakes up to a new day with a song in her heart. At breakfast she learns she has been given a “fresh start,” and she decides to celebrate by doing things differently for the rest of the day. Melena chooses not to fight with her brother, and shares the money she has rather than demanding to be repaid by a less fortunate friend. This story introduces children to the concept of jubilee, which stresses the important principles of debt relief, generosity, and forgiveness. Aaron Boyd’s mixed-media illustrations are as bright and vivid as a sun-washed day.

Born in Canada, Zetta Elliott (Brooklyn, NY) moved to the US in 1994 to pursue her PhD in American Studies at NYU. Her poetry has been published in several anthologies, and her plays have been staged in New York, Chicago, and Cleveland. Her essays have appeared in The Huffington Post, School Library Journal, and Publishers Weekly. She is the author of more than twenty books for young readers, including the award-winning picture book Bird. Her urban fantasy novel Ship of Souls was named a Booklist Top Ten Sci-fi/Fantasy Title for Youth. Three books published under her own imprint, Rosetta Press, have been named Best Children’s Books of the Year by the Bank Street Center for Children’s Literature. Elliott is an advocate for greater diversity and equity in publishing.

THE SODA BOTTLE SCHOOL

Laura Kutner and Suzanne Slade
 Illustrated by Aileen Darragh

In a Guatemalan village, students squished into their tiny schoolhouse, two grades to a classroom. The villagers had tried expanding the school, but the money ran out before the project was finished. No money meant no materials, and that meant no more room for the students. Then one person got a wonderful, crazy idea: Why not use soda bottles, which were readily available, to form the cores of the walls? Sometimes thinking outside the box—or inside the bottle—leads to the perfect solution

Suzanne Slade is the award-winning author of more than one hundred nonfiction books for children. Laura Kutner is the real-life “Seño Laura” in The Soda Bottle School. Aileen Darragh’s other children’s books include Give a Goat

And don't forget
GOAT LADY

Written and illustrated by Jane Bregoli

Two children and their mother, new to the neighbourhood, befriend Noeli Houle, an elderly lady who raises goats. Houle's other neighbours bemoan the Goat Lady's Rundown house and barnyard animals, but the children see how she cares for her goats, they hear her stories, and they come to love her. This is the true story of an elderly French Canadian woman who lived in Massachusetts, and raised goats to provide milk for people who needed it. She was an early contributor to Heifer Project International.

PASS THE PANDOWDY PLEASE

Abigail Ewing Zelz
 Illustrated by Eric ZelzBoyd

What do Napoleon, Cleopatra, George Washington, Gandhi, Queen Victoria, Columbus, Neil Armstrong, Montezuma, Paul Revere, Babe Ruth, Abraham Lincoln, Sacagawea, and Katsushika Hokusai have in common? They are all among the historical figures portrayed in this delightful book by writer Abby Ewing Zelz and cartoonist Eric Zelz. Just like us, the great movers and shakers of history had to eat, and their favorite foods turn out to be a highly entertaining thread to follow through the history of our small planet. History and biography have never been this tasty!

Abigail and Eric Zelz and their daughter Charlotte enjoy history, food, and travel. Eric has worked as an illustrator and designer with newspapers and education for many years. Abby has worked as a curator and educator in history museums and has contributed to historical and educational publications. This is their first children's book.

Books from Lisa Lewis &amp; Laurie Stein

LISA LUCAS

Lisa has always been surrounded with kids. She has them. She teaches them. She reads to them, and now writes for them. For the last 9 years, she has taught Special Education in inner city schools promoting community partnerships and setting up programs for emerging and intermediate readers. She has also written for Reader's Digest and freelanced for several newspapers. Lisa has joined forces with her longtime high school friend and illustrator, Laurie Stein, and together they are cooking up a batch of stories.

Lisa Lewis is a special education teacher and natural-born storyteller. She lives in Toronto.

LAURIE STEIN

Laurie has been drawing ever since she could hold a crayon. As a three year old she took that crayon and scribbled her way up the staircase when her family moved to a new home. Since then, she has learned to draw on paper and canvas and has substituted that crayon for paints and pastels. Her drawings fill many children's books and her paintings hang in a number of homes across North America. She collaborates with her lifelong author/friend Lisa Lucas and they have a whole library of books waiting to be read aloud. You can see more of Laurie's work at www.lauriestein.com

Laurie Stein graduated from the Ontario College of Art & Design, and is the proud illustrator of several children's books. She lives in Toronto.

A TESTIMONIAL TO LESLEY CHOYCE

End of the World as We Know It (ISBN: 9780889953796)

"....There is tenderness, humour, and a delightful fine intelligence at work in Choyce's writing....with a respect for the thoughtful teen reader"--Canadian Children's Book Centre

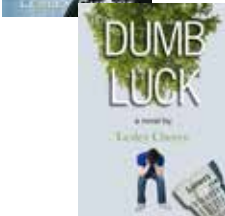

Book of Michael (ISBN: 9780889954175)

"The story behind Michael's rebellious youth and wrongful incarceration is compelling and unpredictable, and it illustrates how often people judge others without understanding the reality of their lives..." Canadian Children's Book Centre

Living Outside the Lines (ISBN: 9780889954359)

"This novel was a quick read - fast paced, well written, and with enough suspense to keep the reader wondering what will happen...(It) will appeal to readers who appreciate love stories that are out of the ordinary, enjoy sci-if, or novels about time travel" --Resource Links

Dumb Luck (ISBN: 9780889954656)

"Undoubtedly, many of us would love to win a lottery, but would more money truly enrich our lives while allowing us to still feel authentic? Would a major lottery win really be lucky? ...Choyce asks this fundamental question which will both entertain. And tantalize young adult readers. Highly Recommended"--Canadian Materials

Random (ISBN: 9780889954434)

"...what many teens may enjoy even more than the plot specifics...is Joseph's unpretentious search for meaning that emerges from his "random thoughts," which range from Malthus to Buddhism to Aristotle to his namesake, Joseph Campbell, who, in describing the mythic hero's perilous journey, articulates what may feel like coming-of-age concerns for many teens." --Booklist

Into the Wasteland (9780889955226)

"Dixon Carter has decided to go off his medications as he wants to see the world without any drugs....This book is a great book for helping (young readers) understand how mental illness affects (a) person and those near to him" --Shelf Life

Jeremy Stone (9780889955042) *2014 Governor General's Literary Awards finalist*

"The unique twist in this Canadian verse novel intriguingly blurs the lines between the imagination, the spirit world, and the here and now...The high interest comes...from a blend of familiar social situations --bullying and self harm--with an innovative and refreshing remedy-- the introduction of possible spirit guides from a real-world religious tradition. Classrooms and collections looking for sensitively handled First Nations/Native American material will want to consider this." --Bulletin of the Center for Children's Books

CLOSING DOWN HEAVEN

by Lesley Choyce

In this whimsical free-verse novel for young adults, sixteen-year-old Hunter propels himself out of this world – literally – and into the next after pushing his ultralight bike beyond risk. He arrives in what he understands to be heaven, to be met by his celestial guide, name of Archie, who tries to interpret for Hunter the rules of this rather confusing realm. It's not long before Hunter meets a girl he used to know in Grade 6, name of Trinity, and from this point on his mission is to love her and protect her. Protect her from herself – and also from the nasty character she became involved with before she died of a drug overdose. As part of this mission, Hunter is able to take advantage of a new policy in heaven that allows some recently deceased to return and pick up their lives again. In this way, Hunter tries to prevent the death of Trinity – but it doesn't work.

Complications multiply until both Hunter and Trinity find a redemptive path which gives them both back their real lives and new opportunities. Lesley Choyce has woven a sometimes comic, sometimes moving narrative, focusing on the kinds of mixed-up teens he seems to know so well. In the end love conquers almost everything, but the twists and turns are engaging and illuminating, as Hunter and Trinity find their way to happiness.

Lesley Choyce's words are sparse, vivid, and very accessible for teenage readers. He is the author of many novels for young adult readers including Random, Book of Michael, Dumb Luck, The End of the World as We Know It, and Living Outside the Lines. He lives in Nova Scotia.

NATHAN

by Susan Ouriou

Ten-year-old Nathan has a number of demons to confront and overcome. One of them is the school bully who delights in tormenting Nathan wherever he comes upon him – and that can happen in unexpected and unpredictable ways. Another challenge is that Nathan's Grampa is suffering from the early onset of Alzheimer's, and because Nathan is devoted to his grandfather, they both have to navigate this difficult new challenge in the family's life. Grampa moves in with Nathan, his mother and father, and together they try to figure out how things are going to work from here on in. Finally, Grampa introduces Nathan to a part of his heritage he knew nothing about until now: a First Nations link with a great-grandmother, now long gone, whose story of hope inspires Nathan to overcome his own worries.

- Multi-generational, high-lo, ESL appeal
  - Native Characters in a modern suburban setting
  - Exploration of the Alzheimer's and the disease' affect on an Alzheimer's victim's circle
  - Truth and reconciliation issues
- Metis culture and heritage

SUSAN OURIU lives in Calgary where the story is set, and is a Governor General's award-winning literary translator as well as an interpreter for the Truth and Reconciliation Commission.

RACE TO PISA

Written and Illustrated by Trevor Newland

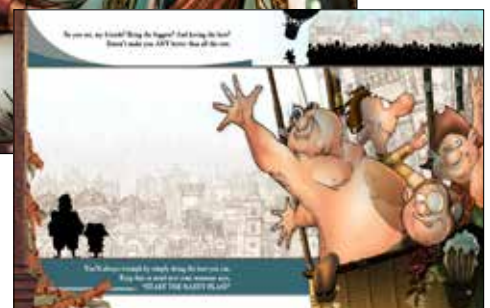

Everyone knows about the world-famous Tower of Pisa. But do you know why it leans? Race to Pisa! is about the smallest king in history, Nasty King Nedward. It's about his jealousy over Jolly Roger, the rather large royal tailor. It's about a nasty plan to get rid of this tailor and a balloon race involving clueless Scallywags, blistering blunderbuss balls, flimsy parachutes, and Belarius, the very notorious balloon master. It's about nasty revenge plans gone awry and the real reason why the world-famous Tower of Pisa leans (a little to the left).

Join the Scallywags on their third adventure as they revise history and remind us that you don't need to be very beautiful or extremely intelligent to make your mark in the world. You just need courage and the ability to make a parachute out of your trousers.

Trevor Newland's first two books in the Scallywag series, The Scallywag Solution and Mighty Melvin the Magnificent were published by Mosaic Press in 2014 and 2016. His writing has appeared in WestWord Journal and The Vancouver Review. As a former songwriter based out of Vancouver and Los Angeles, Newland has composed/produced music for television and radio, and has been reviewed by numerous newspapers and magazines, including Canadian Musician Magazine. Currently, he teaches literature and creative writing at Langara College in Vancouver and is working on his first wordless graphic novel.

ANIMAL DREAMING AN ABORIGINAL DREAMTIME STORY

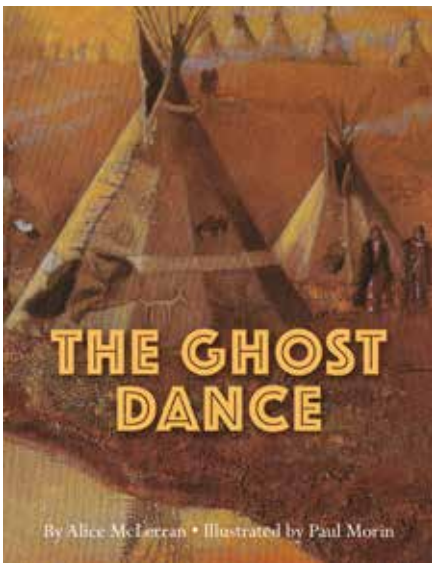

Now in paper

Written and illustrated by Paul Morin

It is the belief of Australia's Aboriginal peoples that the earth, long ago, was soft, and without form.

That the animals of the land created the shapes of the land...the deserts, mountains, lakes and prairies.

Paul Morin recreates that time, as a young Aboriginal child discovers his heritage, the past of his people, and his own place in the future, while learning the legends of the Dreamtime. "...readers learn about ancestral spirits, sacred places, and respect for ceremony..." Kirkus

CARIBOU SONG

By Tomson Highway
Illustrated by John Rombough

“Tomson Highway’s mastery creates an exciting, action-packed plot. Elements of suspense simultaneously entertain beauty, magic, and whimsy. John Rombough’s illustrations complement Highway’s text. A textured brush strokes vibrant colors across the sky, breathing life into the vast expanse of the wilderness. Intricate acrylic silhouettes frame the page and juxtapose the jewel-toned images that create the landscape and characters. The pages mirror the vibrant youthful energy and excitement of the characters and story. Caribou Song is a beautiful marriage of story and illustration.”

CALLING THE WATER DRUM

by LaTisha Redding
illustrated by Aaron Boyd

Henri and his parents leave their homeland, Haiti, after they receive an invitation from an uncle to come to New York City. Only able to afford a small, rickety boat, the family sets out in the middle of the night in search of a better life. Out at sea Henri dreams of what life will be like “across the great waters.”

Calling the Water Drum is a tender and beautiful tribute to the resiliency of children and the human spirit.

LATISHA REDDING makes her picture book debut with Calling the Water Drum. She was inspired to write this story based on the memories of some of her Haitian friends’ stories of how they arrived in the United States. This book is a tribute to everyone who has courageously set forth with hope to start a new life in a new country.

GROWING PEACE

by Richard Sobol

On the morning of September 11, 2001, J. J. Keki, a Ugandan musician and coffee farmer, was in New York, about to visit the World Trade Center. Instead, J.J. witnessed the terrorist attack on the Twin Towers. He came away from this event with strong emotions about religious conflict. Why should people be enemies because of their religions?

RICHARD SOBOL is an award-winning photojournalist who has created more than a dozen photo-essays for young readers. His books explore a wide range of wildlife, conservation, environmental, and cultural topics. While visiting Uganda, Sobol learned about a village where people of three faiths had come together in harmony in the aftermath of 9/11, and he was inspired to tell their story for children.

IN THE TIME OF DRUMS

by Kim L Siegelson

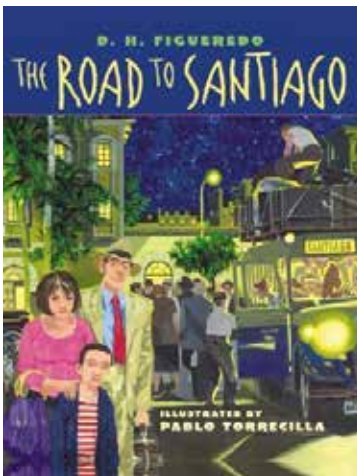

illustrated by Brian Pinkney

It used to be that huge ships often landed near Teakettle Creek bringing African people to work on the island's plantations. Some of the Africans who live on the island made goatskin drums and play music to remind themselves of home. Young Mentu was island born, but grandmother Twi had come from Africa, and she longs for home. Thanks to Twi, Mentu learns to play the drums and to respect the strength of the music. Here is an extraordinary Gullah tale of mysticism, intrigue, strength, and courage that will leave readers of all ages spellbound.

THE ROAD TO SANTIAGO

by D. H. Figueredo

illustrated by Pablo Torrecilla

It's Noche Buena, the night before Christmas, and Alfredito and his parents head for the train station for their annual trip to their relatives in Santiago. But this year things are different. The government is fighting a war against the rebels and the trains are not running. Alfredito worries that they'll miss the family's traditional Christmas celebration and all the special foods.

D. H. FIGUEREDO is the author of both adult and children's books. He is a native of Cuba and has lived in New Jersey since he was a teenager.

PABLO TORRECILLA has illustrated many books for the educational market as well as a number of bilingual children's trade picture books.
